

LIFE IS SHORT, bronze, 6' x 4' x 4.5'

Haroutioun Tehguverian

Rego Park, New York

I utilize sculpture as a means of expressing my fundamental empathy for humanity. In applying laws of perspective to my work, and assertively placing my viewing point within or about the object, I seek to capture a satirical view of reality, and the impact upon the reason of man.

Through the use of media and color I enhance the expression of universal experience of uncertainty and vulnerability. And at last I leave the unity of the visual elements to represent the presence of divine power in every cell in the universe.
