

UNTITLED, bronze or fiberglass and steel, 20' to 25' high

John E. Watts

Nashville, Tennessee

Professional Vita

Instructor of art, Watkins College of Art & Design, Nashville, Tennessee, 2002 - present
Production manager/technical research, MCN Design, New York, New York, 1999 - 2001
Professor of art, College of Charleston, South Carolina, 1998 - 1999
Installation specialist, Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles, California, 1997

Selected Public Installations

CHARLES DARWIN AND GOD, Science Library, University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia
The Living Waters Methodist Church, Sikeston, Missouri

Education

MFA, University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia, 1996
BFA, Murray State University, Kentucky, 1992

The precarious composition reflects on the ridiculous situations we as humans sometimes get ourselves into. The plump figure is in despair after having dropped his fork, which lies on the ground beneath him.

SCULPTURE PROPOSED FOR:

WaxWorks·VideoWorks®